Philip Eichorn is a highly distinguished attorney and immigration law expert. In this informative interview, he addresses important developments concerning immigration and various citizenship-related issues.

Phil also offers experienced and aggressive representation defending deportation cases. His firm represents individuals, families, and businesses in all areas of immigration law including but not limited to obtaining green cards for spouses, children and parents, obtaining citizenship for permanent residents and work visas for U.S. employers and their foreign national employees.

Additionally, Phil is a skilled criminal trial lawyer and former prosecutor. He approaches his cases with exceptional dedication and professional success. His firm has highly respected reputation for helping clients with visa or naturalization applications, pending deportation or removal cases, and criminal charges. Phil holds an undergraduate degree from Ohio State University and a law degree from the University of Akron School of Law.

Glenn Harlan Reynolds is one of the most prolific scholars on the University of Tennessee faculty. In this exciting interview, Professor Reynolds analyzes “The Longevity Dividend” and extending the life expectancy for millions.

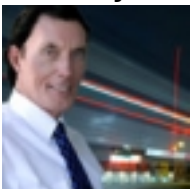

Professor Reynolds also has special interests in law and technology and constitutional law issues, and his work has appeared in a wide variety of publications, including the Columbia Law Review, the Virginia Law Review, the University of Pennsylvania Law Review, the Wisconsin Law Review, the Harvard Journal of Law and Technology, Law and Policy in International Business, Jurimetrics, and the High Technology Law Journal.

He has additionally written in the New York Times, Washington Post, Washington Times, Los Angeles Times, and Wall Street Journal, as well as other popular publications. He is also a contributing editor to the TechCentralStation.Com website, and writes a regular column for the FoxNews website. He is the co-author of Outer Space: Problems of Law and Policy and The Appearance of Impropriety: How the Ethics Wars Have Undermined American Government, Business, and Society.

Professor Reynolds has testified before Congressional committees on space law, international trade, and domestic terrorism. He has been executive chairman of the National Space Society and a member of the White House Advisory Panel on Space Policy. A member of the UT faculty since 1989, Professor Reynolds received the Harold C. Warner Outstanding Faculty Scholarship Award in 1991, and the W.
